

Ruth's Tatted Heart Pattern

Copyright © 1995 – 2006 Rozella Linden Tatting <http://rozellalinden.com>

This little heart makes a lovely pendant, earrings or scrapbook / card embellishment.

One shuttle only! All rings are tatted without turning the work or leaving a space. They just naturally bend around & take the shape of a heart.

Slide three beads onto the thread of a shuttle wound with any size & color thread. Beads should be just large enough to string on the thread. The picots between rings are all very small ones. The three picots in the center of the bottom ring are larger. See Photo.

Ring1 (2 - 2 - 2)

Ring2 (2 + 3 - 2) Join to last picot of previous ring.

Ring3 (2 + 3 - 2) Join to last picot of previous ring.

Ring4 (2 + 3 - 2) Join to last picot of previous ring.

Ring5 (2 + 3 - 2) Join to last picot of previous ring.

Slide a bead next to the ring just made.

Slide a bead onto the thread used to make the next ring:

Ring6 (3 + 3)

Slide a bead next to the ring just made.

Ring7 (2 + 3 - 2)

This one joins to the same picot as the previous ring. There are three rings joined together here at the same picot.

Ring8 (2 + 3 - 2) Join to last picot of previous ring.

Ring9 (2 + 3 - 2) Join to last picot of previous ring.

Ring10 (2 + 3 - 2) Join to last picot of previous ring.

Ring11 (2 + 2 - 2) Join to last picot of previous ring.

Ring12 (2 + 2 - 2) Join to last picot of previous ring.

Ring13 (2 + 3 - - - 3 - 2) This ring is the point at the bottom of the heart.

Ring14 (2 + 2 + 2) This is the last ring. It is joined to the previous ring and the first ring. You can bend the bottom of the heart over so it is easier to make the final join.

Tie, Hide, Cut ends.
